Nach Siebs ist der Name in Ost-Friesland entstanden. In Sud-Russland fand er sich vornehmlich in den friesischen Doerfern Rudnerweide, Grossweide, Pastwa. Seine Traeger machen 3.6% der russland-mennonitischen Bevoelkerung aus

Janzen

(Jantzen, Janssen, Jansson, Jansen, Johnson, Jansz, Jantz, Jantz Jans), one of the most widespread Mennonite family names of Dutch-Prussian background, derived from Jan (Johann, John) a given name, to which is added "zon" (zen, sen, etc.) the combination meaning "son of John". The name was very common among the Dutch Mennonites and found its way into the congregations bordering the Netherlands such as Crefeld, Gronau, and East Friesland; also in Schleswig-Holstein and Prussia, where it was represented in the congregations of Elbing, Koerigsberg, Tiegenhagen, Ladkopp, Rosenort, Fuerster Werder, Neuboden, Tienisdorf, Brlofffelder, Schoensee, Jeziorka, Deutsch Kazum etc. The name appears first on record in Danzig in 1568. From Prussia it was transplanted to Russia and later to North America, where it is found in most of the settlements started after 1874, and to South America. A branch of this name was transplanted from the Lower Rhine to Pennsylvania, where it was changed into Johnson.
