Katie Peters Unpublished Genealogies

In 1986 Katie Peters donated her collection of genealogical materials she had collected. The biggest portion consisted of 200 binders of family genealogies, 400 binders of genealogical materials such as newspaper clippings and obituaries, about 66,000 index cards, and some church registers. She saw this as her God given ministry.

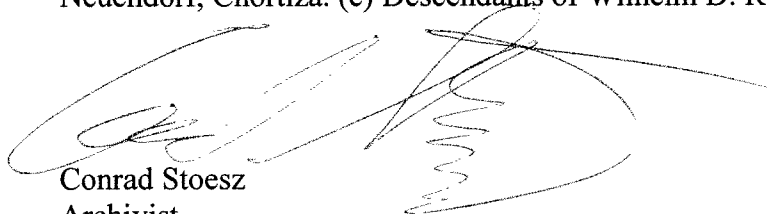

The genealogies consist of a collection of non-printed family histories. These genealogies and family histories are in manuscript (meaning hand-written) or typescript (typewritten) form. They range in length from a few pages to several hundred pages, and are for the most part, on loose-leaf paper bound in duotang folders. Some of the genealogies were copied from previously published works, but often re-organized, or with an index added, and in some instances with further information added. Some of the genealogies are the manuscripts of the published works of Katie Peters herself. A number of the volumes are collections on a particular family name containing a number of family genealogies and family registers which may or may not be connected genealogically.
