was born in Nieder-Chortitza, Russia. Here he also got married to Anna J. Hoepfner. Now he bought a farm here on which they lived for 25 years. Then he moved to Nikolaipol, where he lived for 22 years. All children, except two, were married by that time. As land was scarce in this district, the mother colony of Chortitza bought land in the Bachmut district from a wealthy landowner by name Borrissow.. Peter P. Vogt moved with all his children to this new settlement. They laid out three villages: #1 Kondratyewka, in which Peter Vogt settled, #2 Nikolaipol and #3 Lyubomirowka. This was in the year 1891. In 1892 passed his wife away. A few years later Peter Vogt remarried a Mrs. Bergen. This was her second widowhood. Her first husband had been Peter H. Holzrichter. She had four children by her first marriage: † 1882

Peter Vogt was getting up in age and it was hard for him to work the land. So he rented it out. He passed away in 1900.

After his death everything was divided up among the family, his second wife getting half share. The other half was divided among the 7 children of his first marriage (or their descendents, where the older ones had passed away. The farm was sold to Daniel Loewen.

Peter P. Schroeder was born in Neu-Osterwick, and his wife Helena Vogt in Neu-Chortitza. After their marriage they lived three years in Yasekovo before they moved to Miloradowka. There they rented a farm for two years. After the land was bought in the Bachmut district, they moved there and settled in the village Kondratyewka. ~~xxxxx~~ Peter Schroeder built a mudhut close to the river ~~in~~ Toretz, in which they lived for one year while the other buildings were being put up. These were built out of bricks. In the fall of 1892 they moved into their new house. Peter Schroeder had 50 Dessyatin land of which was one Dessyatin in garden, orchard and yard. In their orchard they had ~~diffax~~ several ~~xxxxx~~ varieties of apples, pears, plums, apricots and cherries besides 200 shrubs of gooseberries and currants. As these started to bear fruit they had more income from this one Dessyatin than from the 40 with grain. 9 Dessyatin were pasture land.

Some of the farmers were not satisfied with 50 dessyatin land. So in 1908 they bought more land in the Woronyesh district. Peter Schroeder also sold his place, but he changed his mind and did not move away. He rented his old farm for several years. In 1913 he bought a share of a steam flour mills in Plietsetze, a railway station, and moved over there.

During the First World war 1914-1918 several bridges were blasted. They also wanted to blast the flour mills but blasted only the chimney. Revolution followed. Everything was taken from them, and they moved back to Kondratyewka where Peter Schroeder went into gardening.

A4 - B1 - C3 - D - E1

Peter P. Schroeder was born in Nikolaipol and lived during his youth in Kondratyewka, #1, where his parents lived. After his parents sold their farm in 1908, he went to Petrowka to work in the Flour Mills of Hiebert Bros. After working there for two months the flour mills burned down. They built a new one right away in the Don district. So in the fall he went over there and worked 4 months only, because his uncles Johann and Jacob Schroeder also owned a Flour Mill in the Don district. Christmas I went over to my uncles and worked there till Oct. 1, 1909. I had a call to start my service for the government on Oct. 21, but was set free. So in November 1909 Peter Schroeder went to his cousin J. Schellenberg in the Cherson district, who had a grit mill. There he worked till Christmas 1912, when he returned home for his grandfathers funeral on Dec. 27.

On Aug. 31, 1913 he got married to Margaretha Rempel. After the wedding they lived in his parents summer room till Jan. 1914, when they moved to the Russian village Gradowka. Here he built an oilmill. It started to work in March and we made good money. But in 1914 war broke out and he was enlisted for sanitary service on July 28. In August we went back to my wife's ~~parents~~ parents in Neu Chortitz. In April 1915 I was called to Moscow. After 3 days seven of us were sent to Turkey, arriving in Karakalis on Apr. 28, right at the Front. Our army was losing and we had to retreat. The fight went on for 4 days and nights (without food) till finally the Turks were beaten.

He had one month furlough in the fall of 1917. The time passed quickly. He did not want to go back, so went to see a medical doctor and asked him for how much money he would set him free. He demanded 500 Rubel. This I promised ~~to~~ to give him. As I received my medical check-up before the commission, I was released from all service. With money and "vodka" you could get anything in those days. All property was confiscated by the government. So my father-in-law lost his grit mill. The government was going to look after the work now but did not get very far. So Peter Schroeder and his brother-in-law worked in this mill for a while. On Jan. 1, 1927 they rented it from the government for 3000 Rubel annually. They worked day and night except Sundays, the whole year round and they made good money. But at the end of the year all their savings were taken from them. This caused him to back out of the business and in spring of 1928 he started to work with his papers, receiving the passport to leave the country on July 16. On July 18 all their belongings were auctioned off and two days later they left Neu-Chortitza, arriving in Moskau July 23. After 2 days in Moskau they left and passed through the Iron Gate on July 26, 1928, arriving in Riga July 28. Here they had to wait for three months, telling him that his wife was too thin and run down, which was not the ~~xxxxx~~ reason. Finally on Oct. 20 they left Riga arriving in Quebec on Oct. 28, 1928. From here they went to Duff, Sask., where his uncle Gerhard Martens lived. From there we went to Glenbush, and a year later to Swift Current, Sask.
